Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

I can't imagine anything I'd rather have after a long hard day in sizzling weather than a long, cool drink. Keep your cupboard filled with ready-to-use fruit juices, bottled carbonated waters, flavored beverages and colas. Then with a very little trouble you can serve refreshing drinks to your friends and family.

Tomato Julep Frappe

4 tablespoons mint leaves
1-2 cup lemon juice
7 cups tomato juice
Crush mint leaves, add lemon juice and 3 1-2 cups tomato juice. Chill 1-2 hour. Strain, freeze to mush in refrigerator tray. Chill remaining tomato juice; serve in glasses with a scoop of tomato juice frappe in each.

Pineapple Cooler

1 1-2 cups pale dry gingerale
2 1-4 cups canned pineapple juice
Ice
Canned pineapple sticks
Lemon slices
Cherries
Mint
Combine ginger ale and the pineapple juice. Add ice, as desired, in each glass place a pineapple segment, a lemon slice and a cherry. Fill with the pineapple juice mixture. Garnish with mint.

Grapefruit Loganberry Flip

1 3-4 cups loganberry juice
2 1-4 cups grapefruit juice
1 3-4 cups pale dry gingerale
Ice
Combine fruit juice with gingerale. Add ice as desired.

Cranberry Pineapple Ale

1 pint bottle cranberry juice cocktail
2 1-4 cups canned pineapple juice
1 3-4 cups pale dry gingerale
Ice
Combine the fruit juices and add the gingerale. Add ice as desired.

Golden Nectar

2 1-2 cups apricot nectar
2 1-2 cups orange juice
1 pint charged water
Sliced green cherries
Chill nector, orange juice and water; combine. Serve in tall glasses with ice. Garnish with cherries.

Chocolate Mint Soda

2 quarts carbonated cocoa beverage
Few drops peppermint extract
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Chill cocoa beverage; add peppermint extract. Serve in tall glasses with a scoop of ice cream in each.

Grape Cocktail

Mix equal parts of grape juice and grapefruit juice. Chill and serve in tall glasses.

Ginger - Cider Ale

2 cups cider
1 cup orange juice
1 3-4 cups pale dry gingerale
Ice
Combine cider and orange juice and add gingerale. Add ice as desired.

GOLDEN GLEAMS

It is a good divine who follows his own instructions. -Shakespeare.

He gives not best who gives most but he gives most who gives best. —Warwick.

Be saving, but not at the cost of all liberality. Have the soul of a king and the hand of a wise economist. —Joubert.

If a man take no thought about what is distant, he will find sorrow near at hand. —Confusius.

Genius is the gold in the ruins; talent is the miner who works and brings it out. —Lady Blessington.

Not Cheap

"In times like these, it is best to live only one day at a time," asserts an editor. Yes, indeed. And some of us can hardly afford that. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Look Out For Tenants!

Motorist: "Some of you pedestrians walk as if you owned the streets." Pedestrian: "Yes, and some of you motorists drive as if you owned your cars."

REVIVAL AT HEBRON BAPTIST CHURCH

. . . The Rev. Clyde E. Baucom

The Rev. Clyde E. Baucom will be the guest evangelist for revival services at the Hebron Baptist Church during the week of August 5 through 12. Services will begin each night at 8:00 o'clock.

Mr. Baucom is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wilson, North Carolina. He is an active leader in both the religious and civic life of his community, and has provided capable leadership for the Baptist work in Eastern North Carolina.

The music for the revival services will be under the direction of Mrs. P. B. Stratton and Mr. O. R. Turnes. Congregational singing of the gospel hymns and special musical arrangements are planned for each night.

The Hebron Baptist Church extends an invitation to everyone to attend these revival services.

DE ATHS

THOMAS J. FIELDS

Thomas Jefferson (Jeff) Fields, 62, died unexpectedly last Thursday night at his home here.

Born in Scott County November 12, 1893, he was the son of the late Frank and Ann Yeones Fields. He is survived by a son, Frank G. Fields of Greenview, Ill., and a brother, E. L. Fields, of Appomattox. and by five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 P. M. from the Bethany Pentecostal Holiness Church. The services were conducted by the Rev. Clyde Shelton, assisted by the Rev. Jesse Blanks. A special solo was rendered by Mrs. Rose Lee West, and music was provided by the choir of the church. Active pallbearers were: Frank Fields, Bob Fields, Carl Hollingworth, Charles Chester, Donald G. Vaughan, and James Lewis. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

RICHARD W. JOHNSON

Richard Washington Johnson, 89, died July 30 at his home on Route One, Appomattox, after an illness of 10 years.

Born in Charlotte County August 2, 1866, he was the son of the late James T. and Fannie J. Johnson. He was a member of the Trinity Methodist Church, Red House. He was a retired farmer and manufacturer of chairs.

He is survived by his wife, Rose Anna Austead Johnson, and by a son, Ernest (Doc) Johnson.

Funeral services will be held at 2 P. M. Thursday, at the Trinity Methodist Church, Red House. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

VIRGINIA PRESS SCHOLARSHIP AVAILABLE

At a recent meeting of the Virginia Press Association, they voted to provide an annual scholarship for a printing student at the Danville Technical Institute, Danville, Virginia.

This scholarship is available for the 1956-57 school year. Any young man who is a resident of Virginia and is a high school graduate may qualify for this scholarship if he can show the need for financial aid.

Four printing courses are offered by the Danville Technical institute. The courses provide training for linotype operation, press operation, offset printing, or general printing.

Information about the printing courses and the scholarship can be secured by writing to the Danville Technical Institute, Kemper Road, Danville, Virginia. The printing classes are not filled for the 1956-57 school year.

HOLD-UP-PROOF CAB

Mexico City.- An inventive taxicab driver has rigged up a device to protect himself and his cab from hold-up men. By simply stepping on a button on the floor of his cab, his invention throws open the driver's door, permitting him to escape; locks all other doors automatically, and, last but not least, shoots the cab full of tear gas.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPT. GETS RECORD BROKEN OVER HIS HEAD BY PASTOR!

Mr. Ollie Hammock, Sunday School Superintendent of the Hixburg Pentecostal Holiness Church, had a record broken over his head Sunday, July 29, 1956, by the pastor. Now, the pastor was not content with him, so let us explain.

A recent contest was launched to help the church break any previous attendance records in Sunday School. The record had been 97. Sunday morning the Sunday School attendment had 104 present, with a full rollment of 93. At the conclusion of the Sunday school hour, Clyde Shelton, pastor of the church, broke an old record over Mr. Hammock's head to the delight of the group.

Mr. Hammock, the pastor, and the church invite the public to attend any of its services. "It's the big white church where you are a stranger only ten minutes."

Leather suits and coats were a big hit last winter and will still be in demand this fall and winter. Printed kid will steal the show.

The designers tell us that we can look tall with a heightened waist. Many of the new suits and coats will feature a high waistline which is supposed to add two inches to your height. We don't know about this, but all the creations we have seen are for the birds.

Shoes that button have brought back the old button hook as standard equipment. There is a clothes brush with a vacuum attachment that will come in handy for both the lady and the man of the house.

Investigate a pair of the latest printed leather shoes. They are eye-catching and add dash to a neutral suit or dress.

The old classic slim sheath dress will be given a new look by a trim that makes for high waist effect. If you must have a high-waisted dress, this will probably be your best bet as the natural body line is followed by the cut of the dress itself. The trim is often added to look like a brief bolero.

NEWS from HOLLYWOOD

Sammy Fuller recently made a five-picture deal with R. K. O. to write, produce and direct. When he finishes "Run of the Arrow," he will start work on "The Big Red One," a story of the Fighting Fifth in World War I. As his third film, he has "Sands of the Sahara," a Foreign Legion tale, and after that, "Iron Kiss," which he would like to produce first as a stage play.

Joe Cotten and Viveca Lindfers will be co-starred in "The Halliday Brand." Viveca, who is currently playing a Russian princess on the stage in "Anastasia," will play a Swedish half-breed Indian.

Don Hartman has signed Sophie Loren for "Desire Under the Elms," and would like so much to get Marlon Brando, also. He may get him, too.

We hear that when the Stewart Granger - Jean Simmons' baby arrives, in August, Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Wilding will be the godparents.

BACTERIAL WILT IN GARDENS

The symptoms of bacterial wilt are a rapid wilting and death of the entire plant, without any yellowing or spotting of the leaves. It attacks tomatoes, tobacco, potatoes, peppers, peanuts, eggplants, soybeans, and several other cultivated and wild plants.

If the stem is cut across near the ground line, the pith shows a darkened, water-soaked appearance, and a grayish, slimy exudate may be noted when the stem is pressed.

In later stages of the disease there is a decay of the pith that may cause extensive hollowing of the stem. These symptoms differ from those of Fusarium and Verticillium, which do not cause sudden wilting or decay of the stems of older plants. Bacterial wilt causes no spotting of the fruit.

The control of bacterial wilt is quite difficult. There are no resistant varieties, and the application of chemicals in sprays or dusts is of no value. The causal bacteria are spread from diseased to healthy plants and from field to field by drainage water following rain. For this reason, infected plants, if relatively few, should be removed from the field at once. Do not replace them with healthy plants for they are also likely to become infected. If a field or garden shows a relatively high percentage of bacterial wilt, then you should not grow tomatoes in that soil for 4 or 5 years. Instead, use it for crops that are not susceptible, such as small grains, legumes, and corn. Be sure that you do not rotate them with potatoes, peppers, or eggplants, since they are very suscpetible.

Bacterial wilt is often brought to a field on diseased seedlings, so be sure your seedlings are not grown on infested soil or on land in the immediate vinicity of infested fields.

HEALTH & BEAUTY

ALLERGIES

The word allergy is comparitively a new-comer to medical nomenclature, though its effects have tormented the human race since the dawn of history.

Only 10 or 15 per cent of mankind suffer from allergies, or idiosyncracies, to certain foods. These people are made sick by eating, or coming into contact with articles of food that are wholesome and necessary to the vast majority of human beings.

Some people inherit their allergies, according to the mendelian laws of inherritance. The whole subject is wrapped in mystery, which the medical profession has never succeeded in fully clarifying. Why some folks are sensitive to one kind of food and not to another, no one knows.

Even nursing babies are sometimes made sick, if their mothers eat foods to which they are sensitive. Just as soon as the mother finds out what she has eaten that disagreed with the baby, and leaves it strictly alone, the child recovers and has no more attacks unless the mother again yields to the baby's undoing.

There are many different symptoms of allergy manifested by the sufferers.

Many baffling diseases, particularly in infants, such as eczema, asthma, stomach and bowel disorders, are due to milk or some other articles of food. It is often extremely difficult to determine the course of certain alarming symptoms, or sudden, or even chronic illness.

A very unusual case of allergy was reported by a physician about as follows: The patient was around fifty years of age. He gave a history of asthma of many years standing. He described terrific attacks which he attributed to heart failure. The seizures started suddenly with a feeling of tightness in the chest. He itched intensely all over and became very weak, followed by complete loss of consciousness, which continued from fifteen to twenty minutes, after which he gradually returned to his usual state of health. This man described several attacks which came on him after licking postage stamps.

On one occasion he had a violent attack on putting on a pair of shoes that had just been repaired by a cobbler. Fish made him extremely ill, so he avoided eating them. Fish glue had been used in repairing the shoes. He was tested and found to be very sensitive to fish and all fish products, even to the glue on the stamps.

This patient was advised to avoid any contact whatever with fish or anything pertaining to fish. He promptly recovered and had no more attacks as soon as he completely avoided fish and its products.

It is often extremely difficult to find out what the offending substance is. Reactions to skin tests sometimes solve the problem, but not always. The sufferer can often find out for himself by close observation. For example, if he has certain adverse symptoms after eating a special food he can test it out by leaving it out his diet for a while.

Miss Lampkin Is Awarded Valuable Medical Scholarship

Miss Beatrice Lampkin, of University, Alabama, spent several days this week here with her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Chas. F. James, while en route to Washington to visit her sister, Miss Julia McCain.

Miss Lampkin, a graduate of the University of Alabama last month, has been awarded this year's only Alpha Lamda Delta Scholarship for advanced college study.

The winner in this national competition has been admitted to the Medical College of Aaibama as of this fall. She will use the $750 Alice Crocker Floyd Fellowship towards her medical studies.

Candidates for this coveted scholarship are required to be former members of the Scholastic Society for freshmen women; also an A-minus average must be maintained over the four year undergraduate period. Miss Lampkin won out over 15 other former ALD members competing nationally.

Miss Lampkin was advised last week that she was the recipient of the Alabama State $5,000 scholarship for four years at the University of Alabama Medical College in Birmingham. Five such scholarships are given annually by the State. One of the requisites for this scholarship is that the recipient must practice in a small town to which the State Department of Health designates for five years after receiving degree.

During Miss Lampkin's four years at the University of Alabama, she was a member of the Million Dollar Band; Chi Delta Phi; Sigma Pi Sigma; Phi Beta Kappa; President Alpha Epsilon Delta; Secretary of The Swan Club; Secretary Mortor Board; Secretary American Chemical Society; and Y. W. C. A. Secretary.

Other honors awarded Miss Lampkins were a membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and recipient of the Dr. John E. Laster award for the most outstanding pre-medical student.

Miss Lampkin was a victim of polio at the age of seven and now walks with the aid of cruches. She is the daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. Charles B. Lampkin at the University. The Lampkins have five children, three of whom are studying to be doctors.

BEES "MOURN" KEEPER

Adams, Mass.- Throughout his life, John Zepka had raised, worked with and loved bees and was known to have had "a way with them." Zepka died recently and when the cortege reached the grave, mourners found the funeral tent swarming with bees — on the tent ceiling and clinging to floral sprays— They did not annoy the mourners —most remained immobile. This recalled the tradition, "Telling the Bees," kept alive in the poetry of John Greenleaf Whittier and Eugene Field. It held that the bees must be told when a member of a family dies — and the hive draped with a shred of black — lest the bees leave their hive.

ZOO IN CAR

San Pedro, Calif.- Attracted by a dog and a puppy on the front seat of a parked automobile, Harbor Guard H. E. McMahon poked his head into the car and then sprang back. In the back seat were thirteen live rattlesnakes and a chuckawalla desert lizard, in cages, and fifteen turtles were crawling on the floor. The car belonged to Jasper N. Maris, herpetologist and cannery worker, who said his hotel wouldn't let the creatures in.
